

MODERN INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY AND RESEARCH CENTRE

70 IMPORTANT QUESTIONS WITH ANSWERS

SUBJECT: COMMUNICATION SKILLS (2FY3-04)

FACULTY: RAJAN SAINI

SESSION: 2025-26

SEMESTER: 2nd

BRANCH: All (First Year)

DATE OF SUBMISSION: 24 April 2026

TOPIC COVERED: ALL IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

1. SECTION A – 40 QUESTIONS
2. SECTION B – 15 QUESTIONS
3. SECTION C – 15 QUESTIONS

FACULTY

H.O.D.

DEAN ACADEMICS

B.TECH I SEM. IMPORTANT QUESTIONS WITH ANSWERS

BRANCH: B.TECH

SUBJECT: COMMUNICATION SKILLS

NAME OF FACULTY: RAJAN SAINI

SUB. CODE: 2FY3-04

SEMESTER- 2 SESSION – 2025-26

(SECTION A) SHORT QUESTION AND ANSWERS

- 1- What do you mean by communication
 - 2- What do you mean by non verbal communication
 - 3- What do you mean by interpersonal communication
 - 4- What do you mean by articulation
 - 5- Bring out only five benefits of 'Effective Listening'.
 - 6- Difference between hearing and listening
 - 7- Define the main objective of 'Writing Skills' for Engineers
 - 8- List any four C's of 'Art of Condensation' or Précis writing.
 - 9- Differentiate between formal and informal letters?
 - 10- What do you mean by an paragraph
 - 11- What are the four important parts of formal letter ?
 - 12- Difference between resume and CV
 - 13- What do you mean by report writing
 - 14- What do you mean by tenses in English Grammar?
-

- 15- What do you mean by voice
- 16- Explain the linking words with example
- 17- What are the conditional sentences
- 18- What are the two clauses that make up a conditional verb
- 19- Write the structure of present tense in all forms
- 20- What is modal verb explain with example
- 21- Difference between active and passive voice
- 22- When does a man become a judge on the basis of the poem 'All the Word's a Stage'.
- 23- Write the name of the poet and the play from which the poem 'All the Word's a Stage'. Or The seven stages of man has been taken
- 24- Describe the second stage of life as depicted by Shakespeare.
- 25- How does a man play a lover's role?
- 26- Bring out the features of the fourth stage of a man as described by the poet.
- 27- Why should be not trust the future?
- 28- What is the overall tone of the poem " The Psalm of life"
- 29- How should we treat our past? Why?
- 30- Read the extract given below and answer the questions that follow.

"Not enjoyment, and not sorrow, Is our destined end or way;

But to act, that each tomorrow Find us farther than today."

Explain the line, "Is our destined end or way".

- 31- How does the poet ask us about the 'Present'?
- 32- What is the secret to success?
- 33- Name the poet of the poem the "Psalm of Life" and what should a person do according to the poet?
- 34- Who are the three important characters in the story the "The Three Questions"?
- 35- Who was the intruder? What made him visit the hermit?
- 36- Why did the king refuse to give reward to anyone?
- 37- What had compelled the king to leave his guards and horse?
- 38- What do you gather about the wise hermit from the lesson?
- 39- Why is Matilda unhappy with her life?
- 40- What was the cause of Matilda's ruin? How could she have avoided it?

(SECTION B)

- 1- What are the common barriers in the process of listening? Explain
 - 2- Explain the ways to develop assertiveness in the process of communication
 - 3- What are the ways by which we can improve writing skills
 - 4- Differentiate between formal and informal letter
 - 5- "They have their exits and their entrances; And one man in his time plays many parts," Comment and explain with reference to the poem "All the world a stage"
 - 6- "Is second childishness and mere oblivion; Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything. Comment and explain with reference to the poem "All the world a stage"
-

-
-
- 7- “Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel, Seeking the bubble reputation”
Comment and explain with reference to the poem “All the world a stage”
- 8- What were the replies the king received for his first question?
- 9- King has right sense of judgement. Do you agree or not? Give examples in support of your answer.
- 10- The king is the main character of the story. Explain giving three examples.
- 11- Do you think we should help people in need? Why so?
- 12- Shakespeare has skillfully brought out the parallels between the life of man and actors on stage. Elaborate this statement with reference to the poem.
- 13- ‘The Necklace’ reveals that vanity is an evil. It may bring joy for short period but ultimately it leads to ruin. If you are placed in a situation similar to that of Matilda, what would you have done? Express your views.
- 14- Complete the sentence with the use of appropriate modal
- a. ___ I borrow this pen from you? (may/might)
 - b. The teacher ___ ask you to bring the homework. (might/can)
 - c. According to the weather forecast, it ___ snow heavily tomorrow. (may/might)
 - d. My mother ___ scold me if I don’t go back on time. (will/may)
 - e. We ___ take care of our parents. (ought to/ could)
 - f. I ___ visit the local grocery store soon. (shall/can)
-
-

g. You ____ be punctual. (should/ought)

h. (May/should) I use your mobile to call my mother?

15- Fill in the blanks with suitable conditional verb

a. If I had been there, I have helped.

b. If he in time, he would get the job. (apply)

c. If the boss now, we will be in trouble. (arrive)

d. If I liked it, I it. (buy)

(SECTION -C) LONG ANSWERS

- 1- Draw a diagram and explain the process of communication with its help
 - 2- Describe in details 7 C'S of communication and the importance of communication skills for engineers
 - 3- What are the different barriers to communication and explain the ways to overcome them
 - 4- Explain in detail the importance of effective listening and the ways to improve listening process
 - 5- How non verbal communication is differs from verbal communication explain? Describe various types of non verbal communication.
 - 6- What are the common barriers in the process of listening? Explain
 - 7- Briefly explain why it is important for Engineer's to have good writing skills
-

- 8- Describe in detail various types of reading techniques with suitable example and importance of reading
- 9- Write a paragraph on " My first day at college"
- 10- Write a letter to the chairman of your municipality about irregular water supply
- 11- Critically examine the poem the "All the World's a stage."
- 12- Write a brief summary of the story " The Three Questions "
- 13- Write a brief summary of the story " The Necklace "
- 14- Describe the various stages of a man's life picturized in the poem "All the World's a stage."
- 15- 'Love is blind' is a phrase that was justified by Monsieur Loisel in the lesson 'The Necklace'. Substantiate the answer from the story you have read in about 100 – 120 words.
-

(SECTION A) ANSWERS1- What do you mean by communication

Ans: Communication is simply the act or the process of transferring information from one place, person or group to another. Every communication involves at least one sender, a message & a receiver (recipient). In other words, communication is used for imparting or exchanging (transmitting) of information (message, idea, view or emotion) by speaking, writing or using some other medium

2- What do you mean by non verbal communication

Ans: Non-verbal communication is behavior, rather than spoken or written communication, that creates or represents meaning. In other words, it includes facial expressions, body movements and gestures. Non-verbal communication is talking without speaking a word. It is very effective even more effective than a speech.

3- What do you mean by interpersonal communication

Ans: Interpersonal communication is an interaction between two people in which people co-define and negotiate relationship by using communication in face to face environment.

4- Bring out only five benefits of 'Effective Listening'

Ans: Listening skills are a vital part of good communication. If you have good communication skills, you can start to improve relationships in the workplace as well as in society. Also, you will be able to make decisions more effectively and reach a quicker agreement with others. Here are 7 reasons why listening skills are essential

- Reduces Misunderstandings
-

- Builds Empathy
- Limits Judgements
- Improves Business Relationships
- Increases Productivity
- Enhances Leadership Skills
- Providing Feedback

5- What do you mean by articulation

Ans: Articulation refers to how clearly someone forms words. It includes the ability of a speaker to be coherent and easily understood. Articulation involves using proper pronunciation and grammar and using an appropriate volume and rate of speech. Articulation can also refer to the physical abilities necessary to form sounds and words, including the movements of the tongue, lips, teeth and vocal chords.

6- Difference between hearing and listening

Ans: Hearing implies just perceiving the sounds while listening means listening with understanding whatever you are listening. Both the body as well as mind is involved in listening process.

Listening is an active process while hearing is a passive activity.

Hearing is an effortless activity while listening is an act requiring conscious efforts, concentration and interest. Listening involves both physical and psychological efforts

7- Define the main objective of 'Writing Skills' for Engineers

Ans: Engineering firms understand the importance of writing skills for engineers and seek professionals who exhibit such skill. In every business, communication is key to organizational success, especially for those in senior positions.

It is important that senior engineers develop the written skills to translate technical information into simpler, non-technical terms that can be easily understood by those without an engineering background.

8- List any four C's of 'Art of Condensation' or Précis writing.

The art of condensation is the process to make any piece of writing precise by omitting unnecessary elements these arts of condensation in creative writing is synonymous with precise writing.

CHARACTERISTICS OF ART OF CONDENSATION or 5 C'S OF ART OF CONDENSATION

We should remember 5 characteristics of art of condensation.

- Completeness
 - Compactness
 - Conciseness
 - Clarity
 - Coherence
-

9- Differentiate between formal and informal letters?

Ans: There are two types of letters, i.e. formal letters and informal letters. The formal letter is written for business or professional purposes with a specific objective in mind. It uses simple language that can be easy to read and interpret.

On the contrary, informal letters are written to friends and relative for personal communication and use a casual or an emotional tone. The article excerpt presents you all the important differences between formal and informal letters in a detailed manner.

10- What do you mean by an paragraph

Ans: A paragraph is a group of related sentences that support one main idea. In general, paragraphs consist of three parts: the topic sentence, body sentences, and the concluding or the bridge sentence to the next paragraph or section. Paragraphs show where the subdivisions of a research paper begin and end and, thus, help the reader see the organization of the essay and grasp its main points.

11- What are the four important parts of formal letter ?

- The Heading. The heading contains the return address with the date on the last line. ...
 - Recipient's Address. ...
 - The Salutation. ...
 - The Body. ...
 - The Complimentary Close. ...
-

- The Signature Line. ...
- Enclosures. ...
- Block.

12- Difference between resume and CV

Ans: The differences are: (1) A resume is one page (max. two) whereas the CV can be longer, (2) A resume is used for job hunting in all industries, the CV is used for jobs and admissions in Academia, (3) The resume is tailored to the specific job you are applying to, whereas the CV is a comprehensive overview.

13- What do you mean by report writing

Ans: Report writing is common in a number of disciplines. A report is a specific form of writing, written concisely and clearly and typically organised around identifying and examining issues, events, or findings from a research investigation.

14- What do you mean by tenses in English Grammar?

Ans: According to the Oxford Learner's Dictionary, the term 'tense' is defined as "any of the forms of a verb that may be used to show the time of the action or state expressed by the verb." The Merriam-Webster Dictionary provides a slightly different definition. According to it, the word 'tense' is defined as "a distinction of form in a verb to express distinctions of time or duration of the action or state it denotes."

15- What do you mean by voice

Ans: Voice is a form of a verb that is used to show whether the subject is given more emphasis or the action done by the subject is given more emphasis. The subject of the voice of a sentence is a person, a thing, an action or a place whom the sentence is about.

The term 'voice' is a term that is used to denote the form of the verb which shows if the subject in a given sentence is the doer or receiver of the action. The voice of a verb describes the relationship between the action and the participants (subject or object) in a sentence.

There are two voices in the English language and they are as follows:

Active Voice and Passive Voice

16- Difference between active and passive voice

Ans: The active voice, in a sentence, denotes that the noun or pronoun that acts as the subject in the sentence is the doer of the action. In other words, the subject performs the action or acts upon the verb.

The passive voice, on the other hand, represents that the subject is one acted upon by the action or verb in the sentence. It can also be said that the passive voice indicates that the subject in the sentence is no longer active but passive.

17- Explain the linking words with example

Ans: Linking words are the words that we use to make links between words in a sentence. These discourse markers are used in both spoken and written English. Linkers are a way of making connections between ideas and sentences.

Linking words help you to connect ideas and sentences when you speak or write English. We can use linking words to give examples, add information, summarise, sequence information, give a reason or result, or to contrast ideas.

Some linking words: For example, And, In addition, As well as, Also, Too, Furthermore, Moreover, In short, In conclusion.

18- What are the conditional sentences

Ans: conditional sentences are “ a sentence, often starting with “if” or “unless”, in which one half expresses something which depends on the other half”,. Conditional sentences are natural language sentences that express that one thing is contingent on something else, e.g. "If it rains, the picnic will be cancelled." They are so called because the impact of the main clause of the sentence is conditional on the dependent clause.

19- What are the two clauses that make up a conditional verb

Ans: Conditional sentences consist of a main clause and a conditional clause (sometimes called an if-clause). The conditional clause usually begins with if or unless. The conditional clause can come before or after the main clause. We'll be late if we don't leave now.

20- Write the structure of present tense in all formsAns:*1. Simple Present Tense

Structure: Subject + Verb 1 (V1) + Object

2. Present Continuous Tense

Structure: Subject + is/am/are + Verb 1 + ing + Object

3. Present Perfect Tense

Structure: Subject + has/ have + verb 3 (V3) + Object

4. Present Perfect Continuous Tense

Structure: Subject + has/have + been + Verb 1 + ing + object

21- What is modal verb explain with example

Modal verbs are helping verbs that are used along with main verbs to represent the ability, possibility and probability of a subject to do an action and emphasize the necessity of an action. Modals are special verbs that are different from normal verbs. They are never used alone and are always followed by a principal verb. They provide additional information about the principal verb. Some modal verbs are: Can, may, must, shall, will, could, might, should, would 22- When does a man become a judge on the basis of the poem 'All the Word's a Stage'?

Ans: As he grows older, with maturity and wisdom, he becomes a fair judge. During this stage, he is firm and serious.

23- Write the name of the poet and the play from which the poem 'All the Word's a Stage'. Or The seven stages of man has been taken

Ans: 'All the Word's a Stage' is written by William Shakespeare taken from the play "As you like it"

24- Describe the second stage of life as depicted by Shakespeare.

Ans: The second stage of a human's life is a school boy. He slings his bag over his shoulder and creeps most reluctantly to school.

25- How does a man play a lover's role?

Ans: A man plays a lover's role by busily composing ballads for his beloved and he yearns for her attention.

26- Bring out the features of the fourth stage of a man as described by the poet.

Ans: In the fourth stage, a man is aggressive and ambitious and seeks reputation in all that he does. He promises solemnly to guard his country and becomes a soldier.

27- Why should be not trust the future?

Ans: We should not trust the future even though it may seem pleasant because future is never fixed. We never know what we might face in our future. So, the poet says that it's better to live in the present because the present is in our hands

28- What is the overall tone of the poem “ The Psalm of life”

The tone of the poem is very didactic and filled with spiritual fervor. The poet adopts a didactic tone when he tells us about the uncertainty of life and the importance of the present. He adopts a spiritually fervent tone when he asks us to enrich our souls and not be scared of the hardships of life. On the other hand, the tone of the poet is very encouraging throughout. At every point, he encourages us to seize our present and fill it with a burst of activity

29- How should we treat our past? Why?

Ans: We should bury our past completely, like we bury dead people who cannot return to our present and future. This is necessary because if we bear our past along with us, we will never be able to progress in the present and future. The past is dead and useless

30- Read the extract given below and answer the questions that follow.

“Not enjoyment, and not sorrow, Is our destined end or way;

But to act, that each tomorrow Find us farther than today.”

Explain the line, “Is our destined end or way”.

Ans: In this line, the poet says enjoyment or sorrow are not the destined end or way of living. Our lives should not be based just on enjoyment or mourning. Instead, our aim in life should be to act wisely each day so that we can create a better future.

31- How does the poet ask us about the 'Present'?

Ans: The poet asks us to act courageously in the present and never lose faith in God. He says that people should bury their pasts and move on in life with new vigour and freshness. Our present is a beautiful gift and we should not ruin it by thinking about the past.

32- What is the secret to success?

Ans: The secret of success is that we should let go of our past, live and act in the present and never trust our future however pleasant it might be. We should place our faith completely in God and continue to strive effortlessly. A wise man makes his present strong and bright by working day and night without rest and having firm faith in the justice of God.

33- Name the poet of the poem the "Psalm of Life" and what should a person do according to the poet?

Ans: The name of the poem is 'A Psalm of Life'. The name of the poet is 'Henry Wadsworth Longfellow'. A person should not let his life be dictated by how much joy or sorrow he feels, but instead he must strive towards perfection and make his future better. The real value of life lies in the labour that we put in everyday for a better future

34- Who are the three important character in the story the "The Three Question"

Ans: The King , The Hermit and The wounded man these are the three characters of the lesson three question . Explanation: Three Questions' was written by Leo Tolstoy who considers the themes of wisdom, acceptance, kindness and forgiveness

35- Who was the intruder? What made him visit the hermit?

Ans: The intruder was enemy of the king he had planned to attack the king but was instead attacked by the king's bodyguards, as they had recognized him. He had received a wound in his stomach. He was rushing towards the hermit's hut for help.

36- Why did the king refuse to give reward to anyone?

ANS:The king was not satisfied with the answers of the wise men. They all had given different answers to the same questions because of which he was unable to come to a conclusion, so he refused giving the reward to anyone.

37- What had compelled the king to leave his guards and horse?

Ans: The king knew that the hermit meet only ordinary man so left behind his horse and bodyguards and went to meet the hermit in his hut in the woods all alone.

38- What do you gathered about the wise hermit from the lesson?

Ans:The hermit was a weak old man and used to live amidst the woods which he would never leave. He was digging the ground in front of his hut for sowing seeds when king arrived and the tedious task had made him tired.

39- Why is Matilda unhappy with her life?

Ans: Matilda is unhappy with her life because she ceaselessly, felt herself born for all delicacies and luxuries. The shabby walls, the worn chairs in her house tortured and angered her. She wanted to have the life with all materialistic comfort which she was having .

40- What was the cause of Matilda's ruin? How could she have avoided it?

Ans: Matilda's aspiration and unrealistic dreams were the cause of her ruin. She paid due importance to materialistic things. She could have easily avoided if she had remained within her means. She was not a practical lady and had not understood her husband's feelings.

(SECTION B) ANSWERS1- What are the common barriers in the process of listening? Explain

Ans: Listening is not easy and there are a number of obstacles that stand in the way of effective listening, both within outside the workplace.

These barriers may be categorized as follows.

1- Physiological Barriers: -

Some people may have genuine hearing problems or deficiencies that prevent them from listening properly. It can be treated. Some people may have problem in processing information or retaining information in the memory. For example Lack of concentration/interest.

2- Physical Barriers: -

These referred to distraction in the environment such as the sound of an air conditioner , cigarette smoke, or an overheated room. It can interfere the Listening process. They could also be in the form of information overload. For example, if you are in meeting with your manager and the phone rings and your mobile beeps at the same time to let u know that you have the message. It is very hard to listen carefully to what is being said. Arriving late for a speech, presentation or lecture. Therefore unavailability of listeners, Speaker or listener being distracted by disturbances will also be coming into physical barrier category.

3- Attitudinal Barriers: -

Pre occupation with personal or work related problems can make it difficult to focus one's attention completely on what speaker is saying, even what is being said is of very importance. Another common attitudinal barrier is egocentrism, or the belief that the people have more knowledgeable than the speaker, or that there is nothing new to learn from the speaker's ideas. People with this kind of close minded attitude are very poor listeners

4. Wrong Assumptions: - The success of communication depend on the both the sender and receiver. It is wrong to assume that communication is the sole responsibility of the sender or the speaker and that listener have no role to play. Such an assumption can be big barrier to listening. For example, a brilliant speech or presentation, however well delivered, is wasted if the receiver is not listening at the other end. Listeners have as much responsibility as speakers to make the communication successful. The process should be made successful by paying attention seeking clarifications and giving feedback. Another example: Assuming that the speaker is going to give some unimportant information .or Pre-judgments about the speaker

5. Cultural Barriers:- Accents can be barriers to listening, since they interfere with the ability to understand the meaning of words that are pronounced differently. The problem of different accents arises not only between cultures, but also within a culture. For example, in a country like India where there is enormous cultural diversity, accents may differ even between regions states.

6. Gender Barriers:- communication research has shown that gender can be barrier to listening. Studies have revealed that men and women listen very differently and for different purposes. Women are more likely to listen for the emotion behind a speaker's words, when men listen more for the facts and the content.

7. Lack of Training: - Listening is not an inborn skill. People are not born good listeners. It is developed through practice and training. Lack of training in listing skills is an important barrier. In lack of training people do avoid listening to difficult, boring or complex information and selectively listen only to what is considered interesting.

8. Bad Listening Habits: - Most people are very average listeners who have developed poor listening habits that are hard to said and that act as barriers to listening. For example, some people have the habits of "faking" attention, or trying to look like a listeners, in order to impress the speaker and to assure him that they are paying attention. Others may tend to listen to each and every fact and, as a result, miss out the main point. For example Judging the speaker by his/her mannerisms, voice, appearance, accent, etc

2- Explain the ways to develop assertiveness in the process of communicationAns: DEVELOPING ASSERTIVENESS IN SPEAKING

Being assertive is a core communication skill. Assertiveness can help you express yourself effectively and stand up for your point of view, while also respecting the rights and beliefs of others.

Being assertive can also help boost your self-esteem and earn others' respect. This can help with stress management, especially if you tend to take on too many responsibilities because you have a hard time saying no.

Some people seem to be naturally assertive. But if you're not one of them, you can learn to be more assertive.

Assertiveness is based on mutual respect, it's an effective and diplomatic communication style. Being assertive shows that you respect yourself because you're willing to stand up for your interests and express your thoughts and feelings. It also demonstrates that you're aware of others' rights and willing to work on resolving conflicts.

Of course, it's not just what you say — your message — but also how you say it that's important. Assertive communication is direct and respectful. Being assertive gives you the best chance of successfully delivering your message. If you communicate in a way that's too passive or too aggressive, your message may get lost because people are too busy reacting to your delivery.

The advantages of developing assertiveness in speaking

Being assertive is usually viewed as a healthier communication style. Assertiveness offers many benefits. It helps you keep people from taking advantage of you. It can also help you from acting like a bully to others.

These are a few advantages of developing assertiveness in speaking:

- Gain self-confidence and self-esteem
- Understand and recognize your feelings
- Earn respect from others
- Improve communication
- Create win-win situations
- Improve your decision-making skills
- Create honest relationships
- Gain more job satisfaction

Learning to be more assertive can also help you effectively express your feelings when communicating with others about issues.

The few steps for developing the assertiveness in speaking:

- ❖ Assess your style. Do you voice your opinions or remain silent? Do you say yes to additional work even when your plate is full? Are you quick to judge or blame? Do people seem to dread or fear talking to you? Understand your style before you begin making changes.
 - ❖ Use 'I' statements. Using "I" statements lets others know what you're thinking or feeling without sounding accusatory. For instance, say, "I disagree," rather than, "You're wrong." If you have a request, say, "I would like you to help with this" rather than, "You need to do this." Keep your requests simple and specific.
 - ❖ Practice saying no. If you have a hard time turning down requests, try saying, "No, I can't do that now." Don't hesitate — be direct. If an explanation is appropriate, keep it brief.
 - ❖ Rehearse what you want to say. If it's challenging to say what you want or think, practice general scenarios you encounter. Say what you want to say out loud. It may help to write it out first, too, so you can practice from a script. Consider role-playing with a friend or colleague and ask for clear feedback.
 - ❖ Use body language. Communication isn't just verbal. Act confident even if you aren't feeling it. Keep an upright posture, but lean forward a bit. Make regular eye contact. Maintain a neutral or positive facial expression. Don't cross your arms or legs. Practice assertive body language in front of a mirror or with a friend or colleague.
 - ❖ Keep emotions in check. Conflict is hard for most people. Maybe you get angry or frustrated, or maybe you feel like crying. Although these feelings are normal, they can get in the way of resolving conflict. If you feel too emotional going into a situation, wait a bit if possible. Then work on remaining calm. Breathe slowly. Keep your voice even and firm.
-

- ❖ Start small. At first, practice your new skills in situations that are low risk. For instance, try out your assertiveness on a partner or friend before tackling a difficult situation at work. Evaluate yourself afterward and tweak your approach as necessary.

Remember, learning to be assertive takes time and practice. If you've spent years silencing yourself, becoming more assertive probably won't happen overnight. Or if anger leads you to be too aggressive, you may need to learn some anger management techniques.

If despite your best efforts you're not making progress toward becoming more assertive, consider formal assertiveness training. And if certain issues such as anger, stress, anxiety or fear are getting in your way, consider talking with a mental health professional. The payoff will be worth it. By becoming more assertive, you can begin to express your true feelings and needs more easily. You may even find that you get more of what you want as a result.

3- What are the ways by which we can improve writing skills

Many people underestimate the importance of having excellent writing skills. Read on to learn more about how you facilitate the improvement of what is arguably one of the most indispensable skills to have; written communication!

HERE ARE 6 SIMPLE TIPS TO IMPROVE YOUR WRITING SKILLS!1- Make Writing a Daily

Practice really does make perfect! If you compare writing to a skill like cooking, or even playing a sport, you cannot expect to improve if you don't practice – it's like expecting to become a pro football player after one practice with your team.

Try to set yourself daily writing exercises – they need not be long-winded and time-consuming, even just committing yourself to writing a paragraph a day is enough! You can even partner up with someone else who also wants to improve their writing skills and read each other's paragraphs to see where changes need to be made.

2- Read, Read, and Read Some More!

We learn best by example, and gaining writing skills is no exception to this rule. When we read, we learn how other people write to convey their messages in the best way possible, and we start to adapt our writing styles to those that we resonate most with.

Incorporate daily reading into your writing exercises; maybe even make your practice paragraph a review or summary of what you read that day, taking different elements of the author's writing style to develop your own voice.

3- Be Succinct

Try not to use any complicated, long words in your writing. They often confuse the reader and make them disinterested in what you have to say. Keep your sentences short. Never over-use filler words like “very”, “really”, “just”, etc.

They tend to make sentences long and unnecessarily take up your reader’s cognitive space.

4- Never Underestimate the Importance of a Thorough Editing Session

Editing is a part of the writing process that is completely underrated and that is frequently overlooked. Errors in your writing are likely to take attention away from the message you are trying to convey and decrease your reader’s trust in your viability as a writer.

The human brain often overlooks certain small errors during the proofreading process, so using an online editing tool, like Grammarly, comes highly recommended.

5- Develop a Clear Message

There is nothing more frustrating than a piece of writing that doesn’t get straight to the point. Think about what you want to say, what message you want your reader to take away with them, and make sure that that you make this message clear from the very beginning.

It is also important to think about your audience; what do they want to hear, and how would they like it to be conveyed? Do you need to take on a formal, or a more informal tone? Would using humour help develop your message, or should you get straight to the point in a more businesslike fashion?

6- Sit Down and Write!

Sometimes the most difficult step in the writing process is the act of actually sitting down and getting the writing done. By this point, you should have a clear plan of what you want to say, and a general idea of how you want to say it.

It may seem daunting, but remember that the hard work is now done! All you need to do is convince yourself that you are capable (which you are), sit down in front of your notebook or computer, and execute your communication!

4- Differentiate between formal and informal letterAns: Definition of Formal Letters

A formal letter is any letter written in the professional language, with a prescribed format for a formal purpose, i.e. it can be a recommendation letter, enquiry letter, complaint letter, cover letter and so on. All business letters are formal, but vice versa is not possible. Such letters are used for a variety of reasons like a formal invitation, proposal, reference, making a complaint or inquiry, applying for a job. While writing a formal letter one should keep in mind the following things:

- It should be in specified format.
 - It should avoid the use of unnecessary words.
 - It should be straight to the point.
 - It should be relevant and objective.
 - It should be complex and thorough.
-

- It should be polite, even if it is a complaint letter.
- It should be free from any mistakes, i.e. grammatical or spelling.

Definition of Informal Letters

An informal letter is a letter written to someone; we know fairly well. The letter can be used for some reasons like conveying message, news, giving advice, congratulate recipient, request information, asking questions, etc. It is a personal letter, written to whom you are familiar with, like friends, siblings, parents or any other closed one. There is no specific format prescribed for writing this letter.

While writing an informal letter, one can afford to be friendly, and make use personal or emotional tone. Slang or colloquial terms, codes, abbreviations, etc. can also be used at the time of writing it, depending on the familiarity with the recipient.

KEY DIFFERENCES BETWEEN FORMAL AND INFORMAL LETTER

The significant points of difference between formal and informal letters are discussed as under:

- 1- A formal letter is one, written in formal language, in the stipulated format, for official purpose. A letter is said to be informal when it is written in a friendly manner, to someone you are familiar with.
-

- 2- Formal letters are written for official or professional communication. On the other hand, informal letters are used for casual or personal communication.
- 3- There is a manner prescribed for writing formal letters. As opposed to informal communication, which does not follow any format.
- 4- Formal letters are usually written in the third person, however, for business letters, first person is used. On the contrary, informal letters are written in first, second and third person.
- 5- Formal letters are used for writing letters to business, i.e. partners, suppliers, customers, clients, etc, college or institute, employer, professionals, etc. As against this, we use informal letters for writing letters to friends, relatives, acquaintance, etc.
- 6- While writing formal letters, we use passive voice. Conversely, an active and imperative voice is used.
- 7- The sentences we use at the time of writing a formal letter are, long and complex. Unlike an informal letter, where we use short and simple sentences which are easy to interpret.
- 8- The size of a formal letter should be concise; that does not include irrelevant matter. In contrast, the informal letter can be concise or large.

Formal letters do not include contraction like (didn't, can't) and abbreviations rather it uses full forms. As compared to informal letters, which makes use of contraction, abbreviation, idioms, phrasal verbs and even slang and colloquial terms.

5- “They have their exits and their entrances; And one man in his time plays many parts,”
Comment and explain with reference to the poem “All the world a stage”

Ans: Context: The above lines are taken from the poem “All the world’s a stage”, written by “William Shakeshpeare”. It is an extract from Shakespeare’s play “As you like it”.

Explanation: In a drama, every player enters the stage, acts his/her part and then exits. In the same way, we enter in this world by birth. We lead our life in different characters. We exit from this world at the time of our death.

Comment: Shakespeare’s comparison of man’s life with a drama stage is very opt.

6- “Is second childishness and mere oblivion; Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything. Comment and explain with reference to the poem “All the world a stage”

Ans: Context : The above lines are taken from the poem “All the world’s a stage”, written by “William Shakespeare”. It is an extract from Shakespeare’s play “As you like it”. According to the poet, every man has seven stages during his life time. These lines describe the last stage of a man’s life.

Explanation: The last stage of a man is known as his second childhood. A child cannot see, hear, smell and taste anything, during childhood. When a man grows old, slowly he loses his senses of sight, hearing, smell and taste like the child. So this stage of his life is considered as second childhood.

Comment : Shakespeare clearly expresses his views on the final stage of a man.

7- “Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel, Seeking the bubble reputation”
Comment and explain with reference to the poem “All the world a stage”

Ans: Context : The above lines are taken from the poem “All the world’s a stage”, written by “William Shakeshpeare”. It is an extract from Shakespeare’s play “As you like it”. According to the poet, every man has seven stages during his life time. These lines describe the fourth stage of a man’s attitude.

Explanation: In his fourth stage, as a soldier, a man is very jealous in his honour. He is ready to fight with his enemy. He wants to gain the unstable fame and name even by sacrificing his life on the battlefield.

Comment : Shakespeare here shows the fourth stage man’s attitude of yearning for reputation.

8- What were the replies the king received for his first question?

Ans: In reply to his first question, the king was advised to follow a timetable by some men. There were some people who were of the opinion that it was impossible to decide the right time in advance. The king was suggested to keep a note of all happenings around him, avoid indulging in excessive pleasure and do everything that seemed important at any particular time. Along with this he should have a team of intelligent people to guide to him to the right thing at the right time.

9- King has right sense of judgement. Do you agree or not? Give examples in support of your answer.

Ans: Answer: The king wanted to be a good ruler and has a fair sense of judgement. He was seeking answers for the three questions which he thought would help him in his mission. The king was kindhearted, when he found the old man tired of digging the ground, he offered him his help. He kept on bandaging the bearded man's wound until blood stopped coming out from it. He was down to earth, he dressed up like a common man spent the night sleeping on floor at the hermit hut. He forgave the wrong and promised to help him in every possible way.

10- The king is the main character of the story. Explain giving three examples.

Ans: Answer: The whole story revolves around the king. The king had known the hermit's nature of meeting only ordinary men. So, he gave up his king's attire, left behind his soldiers and the horse and went alone to meet him. He offered the hermit his help in digging the ground. He did this till evening. This helped him avoid the attack planned by the bearded man. He helped the bearded man bandaging his wound and offered him water. He saved his life. This helped him make friends with his enemy.

11- Do you think we should help people in need? Why so?

Ans: We should always help people in need. We have been sent to this world to do good to others. If we are good and kind towards others, people will respect us for our kindness. Being kind and helpful keeps us happy from within. We feel happiness when we bring smile on the face of others. We earn their good wishes and blessings in return; It makes us a good human being. To help others is the greatest motto of humanity and we should adhere to it. The king is an embodiment of humanity and kindness. What more can be learnt from him.

12- Shakespeare has skillfully brought out the parallels between the life of man and actors on stage. Elaborate this statement with reference to the poem.

Ans: Shakespeare considers the whole world a stage where men and women are only actors. In a drama, every player enters the stage, acts his/her part and then exits. In the same way, We enter in this world by birth. We lead our life in different characters. We exit from this world at the time of our death. Shakespeare says that every man has seven stages during his life time. In a drama, a player loves his beloved for the sake of the play. At the end, the players say goodbyes and part away. In real life, husband and wife lead their life till death knocks at their door. Like the drama's end, death parts them. The players in the drama really want the reputation for their performance. For fame and name, they give their best on the stage. A man in the fourth stage also is an aggressive and ambitious. He seeks reputation in all what he does, like the player in the drama. Thus Shakespeare has skillfully brought out the parallels between the life of man and actors on stage.

13- 'The Necklace' reveals that vanity is an evil. It may bring joy for short period but ultimately it leads to ruin. If you are placed in a situation similar to that of Matilda, what would you have done? Express your views.

Ans: No doubt, Matilda was proud and self-loving. She was very beautiful and charming and she was proud of her beauty. Because of her beauty, she thought that she was born in a family of clerks through the error of destiny. She felt that she was born for all delicacies and luxuries. She also felt that she was made for expensive frocks, jewels and other such things.

Therefore, we can conclude that Matilda was very vain and proud because of her beauty. When we read the story, we find out that she suffered because of her vanity. If I were placed in a situation similar to that of Matilda, I would have valued the love of my husband. I would have not insisted on buying an expensive dress to wear to the party. There would be no question of borrowing an expensive necklace from my friend. I would have saved me and my husband from all hardships which the Loiseles went through.

14- Complete the sentence with the use of appropriate modal

- a. ___ I borrow this pen from you? (may/might) ans : might
 - b. The teacher ___ ask you to bring the homework. (might/can)) ans : can
 - c. According to the weather forecast, it ___ snow heavily tomorrow. (may/might) ans:may
 - d. My mother ___ scold me if I don't go back on time. (will/may) ans: will
 - e. We ___ take care of our parents. (ought to/ could) ans: ought to
 - f. I ___ visit the local grocery store soon. (shall/can) ans: shall
 - g. You ___ be punctual. (should/ought) ans: should
 - h. (May/should) I use your mobile to call my mother? Ans: May
-

15- Fill in the blanks with suitable conditional verb

- a. If I had been there, I have helped. Ans: would have
- b. If he in time, he would get the job. (apply) ans: had applied
- c. If the boss now, we will be in trouble. (arrive) ans: arrives
- d. If I liked it, I it. (buy) ans: would have bought

(SECTION -C) LONG ANSWERS

- 1- Draw a diagram and explain the process of communication with its help ‘

COMMUNICATION

Communication is simply the act or the process of transferring information from one place, person or group to another. Every communication involves at least one sender, a message & a receiver (recipient). In other words, communication is used for imparting or exchanging (transmitting) of information (message, idea, view or emotion) by speaking, writing or using some other medium Communication has three parts: the sender, the message & the receiver. The sender 'encodes' the message, usually in a mixture of words & non verbal communication. It is transmitted in some way (For ex: In speech or writing) & the receiver 'decodes' it.

There may be more than one recipient & the complexity of the communication means that each one may receive a slightly different message. It is possible that neither of them will have quite the same understanding as the sender.

PROCESS OF COMMUNICATION

- 1- Sender- The process of communication begins when the sender feels the need for it and the idea generates in his mind. Sender is a source of the message. The sender may be a speaker, a writer or an actor. He (Sender) must have clear picture in his mind of what he wants to communicate.
-

- 2- Encoding- When the sender puts his ideas or facts into words, symbols, pictures or gestures which the other person can understand this part of communication process is called encoding. It also involves the choice of appropriate media so that idea is translated into message can be easily transmitted (conveyed) to others.
- 3- Message- A message means what is being communicated it may be verbal or non-verbal; message is the heart of communication.
- 4- Receiver- The person or group to whom the message is directed is known as receiver. This receiver represents the destination of the message. He may be a listener, reader or a viewer.
- 5- Decoding- The receiver translates the words and symbols used in the message into ideas and interprets to obtain its meaning. This is called decoding.
- 6- Channel and medium- The channel connects the sender and the receiver, for instance, time table of a college is the channel which ensures that the teacher and the student go to the same classroom at the same time.
- 7- Feedback- The feedback is the key element in communication and it is the only way of judging the effectiveness and efficiency of the conveyed message. Feedback indicates the knowledge about the outcome of the communication. It begins with the receiver to the conveyed message and ends when response reaches to the sender. Feedback enables the sender to know whether his message has been properly understood and it has the desired effect on the mind and behavior of the receiver. So, with the help of the feedback the audience can control the speaker.
-

- 2- Describe in details 7 C'S of communication and the importance of communication skills for engineers

7 C'S OF COMMUNICATION (QUALITIES OF GOOD COMMUNICATION)

The basic qualities of communication can be discussed under the following headings:

- 1- Clarity- Clarity in communication represents clarity in thoughts and expressions. Communication process begins with the generation of ideas or thoughts in the mind of the communicator. Clarity of thoughts means that the communicator must be clear in his mind about-

- What to say
- Why to say
- To whom to say
- When to say.

After the communicator is clear in his thoughts he must express it in a clear language. This refers to the clarity of expressions and requires proper encoding of the message on the part of the communicator.

- 2- Completeness- Every communication should be complete in all respect and must provide optimum details. Incomplete information may leave the receiver guessing for the actual intent of the message. Incomplete message may also create misunderstanding and delay in response.
-

- 3- Correctness- Majority of conflicts in modern world occur due to the wrong transmission and incorrect information's so we must check the accuracy and authenticity of the message before responding to it because incorrect information may leads to conflicts and misunderstanding.
- 4- Consideration- To communicate effectively, one must have the ability to see and think from the listener's point of view. The communicator should able to understand the position of the listener. He should use human approach and must care for the emotions and sentiments of the listener. He should basically focus on the need of the listener.
- 5- Concentration (attentiveness)- While sending and receiving a message one must pay full attention while transmitting information attention is necessary to ensure that all the relevant details are included in a clear and correct manner.
- 6- Conciseness- The message should be complete in all respect and one should avoid unnecessary and irrelevant information because irrelevant information may cause misunderstanding and creates confusion in the mind of the receiver.
- 7- Courtesy- Communication is always facilitated by humble and polite approach communicator must show a friendly and humble behavior towards the listener as this will also encourage the listener to show politeness. For ensuring courtesy the things should be kept in mind are Apologize modestly, Thank generously and avoid the usage of negative and irritating words.
-

IMPORTENCE OF COMMUNICATION SKILLS FOR CAREER GROWTH AND PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

- Base for action: - Communication acts as a base for any action. Any activity begins with communication which brings information necessary to begin with.
 - Planning becomes easy: - Communication facilitates planning is made easy by communication policies & programmes for their acquisition can be prepared and implemented. In the entire process communication plays a vital role, it also facilitates managerial planning of the organization.
 - Means of coordination: Communication is an important role for coordination the efforts of various people at work in the organization. This coordination between employees & departments is required for smooth functioning of the organization.
 - Aids in decision making:- The information connected through communication aids is decision making. Communication facilitates excess to the vital information required to take decisions. Management would not be able to take decisions in the absence of communication.
 - Provides effective leadership:- A communication skill brings manager near to his subordinates & exchange ideas of submits ideas & appropriate proposals & their opinions. It seeks advices & makes decisions in any organization. In this way he leads his people to accomplish the organizational goal.
 - Boosts morale & motivation:- An effective communication system instills confidence among subordinates & workers ensuring change in their attitude & behavior. The main cause of conflict & dissatisfaction is misunderstanding which can be removed through communication skills.
-

- To maintain the human relations: - Communication helps the management in developing meaningful relationship, changing attitudes & maintaining cooperation. Thus, the communication helps in building & developing human relationship so that healthy environment would be created where everyone feels attach to the organization & to each other.
- Heart of organization: - Communication forms the heart & soul of all organizations. The success of all organization depends on effective communication & having strong communication skills in all aspects of life. Thus, the effective communication is the most basis requirement for successful working of an organization.

3- What are the different barriers to communication and explain the ways to overcome them

Ans:

BARRIERS OF EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION AND MEASURES TO OVERCOME THEM

Communication is a complex process. It is bound to suffer from certain setbacks when conditions other than required for the smooth functioning emerge. They are termed as 'barriers to communication' because they break down the continuity of communication. So, we can say, "Any factor which prevents the smooth flow of the message from sender to the receiver is termed as communication barrier."

Various problems of communication (barriers to communication) may be classified as under:

- a. Semantic Barrier (Language Barrier)
- b. Physical and Mechanical barrier.
- c. Socio-Psychological barrier.
- d. Organizational barrier.

SEMETIC-BARRIER

Semantic Barrier arises due to the problem of language. Language is the most important tool of communication but its careless use may be dangerous.

Language barriers are as follow:

- ❖ Bad Expression- Badly Expressed message lost their impact. Use of coin words, jargons (technical words) and technical terms with special meaning prevents effective communication. Where the receiver does not understand the meaning of the conveyed message
 - ❖ Faulty Translation- Often people translate words in literal sense. Therefore, losing the spirit behind the words Inaccurate translation leads to misunderstanding and confusion
 - ❖ Word with different Meaning- Communication is mainly carried through spoken and written words but some conveys different meaning to different people. When the listener or reader assigns a different meaning to words then there occurs a miscommunication.
-

- ❖ Unclarified Assumption- The sender of the message often makes some assumptions. When these assumptions are vague and unknown to the receiver, communication suffers a lot.

Overcome (Remedies) of Semantic Barrier;

- ✚ Use of words with positive connotations.
- ✚ Positively and properly translate the message.
- ✚ Correctly clarify the assumptions
- ✚ Use of familiar words to the receiver.

PHYSICAL AND MECHANICAL BARRIER

Physical and mechanical barriers arise due to distance, noise and defects in the communication devices. The physical and mechanical barrier can be discussed under following points-

- ❖ Distance and Time- Physical distance between sender and receiver serves as a barrier in communication. Telephone facilities are not available everywhere. There may be breakdown in the telephone, telegraph and telex facilities. There may be breakdown in the telephone, telegraph and postal services or mechanical equipment. Time is also a barrier to smooth communication as delayed messages may create confusion.
 - ❖ Information Overload- Excess of information that the receiver cannot comprehend and become impossible for the receiver to absorb beyond his mental ability. Therefore we should convey all messages in a perceived way.
 - ❖ Noise- The flow of communication is often blocked due to noise caused by traffic, human sounds, constructions work, etc. In fact, loud noise of the machine may make oral communication more difficult as noise distract people's attention which breaks the concentration of the sender or the receiver and prevents them from paying attention on the context.
-

OVERCOME (REMEDIES) OF PHYSICAL AND MECHANICAL BARRIER

-  A little care is needed while conveying the message.
-  Being brief and precise.

SOCIO-PSYCHOLOGICAL BARRIER

This barrier is the most difficult barrier to communication. This consists of the following:

- ❖ Poor retention- In oral communication about 30% of the information is lost in each transmission. Many times we cannot repeat or retain complete message after hearing and reading it once or twice. Poor retention can be removed through repetition, clarification and reminders.
 - ❖ Emotions- Emotions block our mind and blur our thinking and we fail to organize the message properly.
 - ❖ Inattention- Lack of attention on the part of the listener or reader is common barrier to communication. Inattention arises due to pre-occupied mind and creates distraction and deviation.
 - ❖ Fear of status- Status consciousness is a barrier in face to face communication. A subordinate wants to say a lot but when it comes to higher authorities he feels nervous, flatters his speech and he fails to communicate what he wants to say.
-

- ❖ Attitude and Opinion- Personal attitude and opinion often interfere with communication. If the message consists over attitude and opinion than the receivers it unfavorably
- ❖ Close mind- A person may have a close mind due to deep rooted prejudice, superiority complex limits intellectual background. It becomes very difficult communicate with such person having so many problems.

ORGANIZATIONAL BARRIER

This barrier arises due to defects in a organizational structure. The organizational barrier can be discussed under following heading:

- ❖ Inappropriate medium- Various methods of communication is appropriate in specific situations but choice of unsuitable medium may act as barrier to communication
- ❖ Long chain of command- Long chain of command also causes the problem of filtering. It means the sender of the message manipulates the information in such a way that the receiver takes it favorably.
- ❖ Poor spatial arrangements- Spatial arrangements creates disturbance during communication. Faulty arrangements of furniture, partitions, pathways, etc. may prevent eye contact between the speaker and the listener which hampers the smooth flow of communication.

Overcome (Remedy) of organizational barrier

-  Proper Layout.
 -  Shorting scalar chain.
-

HOW TO OVERCOME THE BARRIERS TO COMMUNICATION (REMEDIES)

- First remedy to seek feedback from the audience as this would ensure whether successful communication has taken place or not.
 - Care should be taken in using the tone of communication. This tone should be match with the speech act involved.
 - There should be a careful planning of communication. For the better communication classify the ideas and present them in a simple and easy way in an understandable language. The medium and channels should be appropriate according to the use.
 - Appropriate non-verbal symbols should accompany verbal such as the use of body language, tone, gestures, postures, space, eye contact, etc.
 - An effective interpersonal communication is one in which there is openness, authenticity honesty of thoughts and feelings; one should be like an open book. Always be ready to listen and to give feedback.
-

4- Explain in detail the importance of effective listening and the ways to improve listening process

Ans: EFFECTIVE LISTENING AND ITS IMPORTANCE

Listening is a significant part of communication process. Communication cannot take place until and unless a message is heard and retained thoroughly and positively by the receivers/listeners. Listening is a dynamic process. Listening means attentiveness towards the posture as well as expressions. Listening implies decoding (i.e., translating the symbols into meaning) and interpreting the messages correctly in communication process.

IMPORTANCE OF LISTENING SKILLS IN COMMUNICATION

Listening skills are a vital part of good communication. If you have good communication skills, you can start to improve relationships in the workplace as well as in society. Also, you will be able to make decisions more effectively and reach a quicker agreement with others. Here are 7 reasons why listening skills are essential:

1. Reduces Misunderstandings

Poor communication always results in misunderstandings. And, poor communication arises from poor listening skills. People end up assuming things and misunderstanding each other if they do not share their side of the stories or listen to others actively. So, it's easy to mishear something or misinterpret information. Such misunderstanding can gradually keep increasing if the listening skills in communication are not improved.

2. Builds Empathy

Empathy is essential to effective listening. Therefore, it would be best if you mirrored the emotions the speaker has. For example, if the speaker's face expresses sadness or joy, your facial expressions and words should also express similar emotions. Empathy towards the speaker takes concentration and consumes energy, allowing open communication and establishing relationships.

3. Limits Judgements

Listening limits judgements. While actively listening to someone, your total concentration stays in the conversation. As a result, you try your best to understand the other person or group of people and remove judgmental thoughts. You, therefore, listen to the speaker with an open mind because they are giving you their perspective. You may realise that the speech makes more sense as they continue the lecture.

4. Improves Business Relationships

If you are working in a customer-centric or interactive role, your communication skills play a big part in your success. Thus, practising good listening skills with everyone at the workplace would benefit your success. You could also build stronger bonds with your co-workers. As a result, everyone will respect you more and value you.

5. Increases Productivity

Whether you're at work or home, listening is essential to your success. Good listeners are more likely to store information and understand what's being required of them. This is a

2. Builds Empathy

Empathy is essential to effective listening. Therefore, it would be best if you mirrored the emotions the speaker has. For example, if the speaker's face expresses sadness or joy, your facial expressions and words should also express similar emotions. Empathy towards the speaker takes concentration and consumes energy, allowing open communication and establishing relationships.

3. Limits Judgements

Listening limits judgements. While actively listening to someone, your total concentration stays in the conversation. As a result, you try your best to understand the other person or group of people and remove judgmental thoughts. You, therefore, listen to the speaker with an open mind because they are giving you their perspective. You may realise that the speech makes more sense as they continue the lecture.

4. Improves Business Relationships

If you are working in a customer-centric or interactive role, your communication skills play a big part in your success. Thus, practising good listening skills with everyone at the workplace would benefit your success. You could also build stronger bonds with your co-workers. As a result, everyone will respect you more and value you.

5. Increases Productivity

Whether you're at work or home, listening is essential to your success. Good listeners are more likely to store information and understand what's being required of them. This is a valuable skill in group projects and meetings. People may think they need to talk a lot to contribute, but listening is arguably more essential. If everyone listens to each other, there is less room for misunderstandings. This increases everyone's productivity.

6. Enhances Leadership Skills

Leaders always have good listening skills in communication. Active listening helps you connect with your team's ideas, hear various perspectives, and prevent miscommunications. In addition, a good team leader ensures everyone feels respected, which means they all feel listened to. They always listen to others and help them in every possible way.

7. Providing Feedback

Providing feedback to the speaker can only be achieved through active listening. The goal of feedback is to send signals to the speaker to know that you are actively listening. The medium of feedback can be verbal or non-verbal.

For example, you can use "okay, or I understand it" for verbal feedback. And for non-verbal feedback, you can nod your head and other appropriate facial expressions. Writing down what the speaker is saying also shows your attentiveness.

WAYS TO IMPROVE LISTENING SKILL

Here are some of the tips which can help the person to improve his Listening skill:

- 1. Face the speaker. Sit up straight or lean forward slightly to show your attentiveness through body language.
 - 2. Maintain eye contact, you should always maintain eye contact with the speaker. By doing this, you are giving your undivided attention to the speaker. Also, it shows that you are making an effort to understand what they are saying. As a result, the speaker will feel they are being appreciated for their effort.
 - 3. Minimize external distractions. Turn off the TV. Put down your book or magazine, and ask the speaker and other listeners to do the same.
 - 4. Respond appropriately to show that you understand. Murmur (“uh-huh” and “um-hmm”) and nod. Raise your eyebrows. Say words such as “Really,” “Interesting,” as well as more direct prompts: “What did you do then?” and “What did she say?”
 - 5. Focus solely on what the speaker is saying. Try not to think about what you are going to say next. The conversation will follow a logical flow after the speaker makes her point.
 - 6. Minimize internal distractions. If your own thoughts keep horning in, simply let them go and continuously re-focus your attention on the speaker, much as you would during meditation.
-

7. Keep an open mind. Wait until the speaker is finished before deciding that you disagree. Try not to make assumptions about what the speaker is thinking.

8.Engage yourself. Ask questions for clarification, but, once again, wait until the speaker has finished. That way, you won't interrupt their train of thought. After you ask questions, paraphrase their point to make sure you didn't misunderstand. Start with: "So you're saying..."

09. Do Not Interrupt

Everyone's capacity to understand a subject is different. For example, in some matters, you may not understand everything that someone says to you. So, you may want to ask a question to back up and clarify the topic or phrase you misunderstood.

However, you should wait for a pause in their speech and then ask your question. This way, you are showing the speaker that you are listening, paying attention and willing to discuss things further. The speaker will also appreciate it because they can finish the speech without interrupting.

5- How non verbal communication is differs from verbal communication explain?

Describe various types of non verbal communication.

Ans:

Non-verbal communication is behavior, rather than spoken or written communication, that creates or represents meaning. In order words, it includes facial expressions, body movements and gestures. Non-verbal communication is talking without speaking a word. It is very effective even more effective than a speech.

TYPES OF NON-VERBAL COMMUNICATION

- 1- Kinesics- Kinesics deals with physical movements, sometimes called affective displays. This study applies traditional linguistic principles to the body as whole or to specific parts, particularly the face, hands and arm. It also deals with the posture of standing and sitting as well as with eye and facial expressions. Kinesis generally refers not to sign language that relies on gestures and expressions in a grammatical context in a grammatical context as an alternative to spoken language.
 - 2- Occulesics- is closely related to kinesis. Occulesics deals with eye behavior as an element of communication. Some aspects of occulesics deals with a static or fixed gaze versus dynamic eye movement. The so-called eye contact is the subject of much interpretation by the observer, making it difficult to predict its exact communication impact.
 - 3- Proxemics- It involves the social use of space in a communication situation. One aspect of this is the closeness between and among people when they speak, and the significant role that culture plays in this. Distance is generally described on a continuum from intimate space (0-18 inches) to personal space or informal distance (18 inches to 4 feet) to social space or formal distance (4-12 feet), and public space or distance (beyond 12 feet), proxemics also deals with effective use of space in social setting.
-

- 4- Haptics- It focuses on touching as an element of communication, indicating the type of touch as well as its frequency and intensity. Like any elements of non-verbal communication, haptics is very much a function of nature.
 - 5- Vocalics- also called paralanguage deals with vocal cues, more accurately to as the non-phonemic qualities of language. These include accent, loudness, tempo, pitch, rate of speech. Vocalics is sometimes subdivided into several categories. Vocal characterizers include laughing, crying, yawning and so on.
 - 6- Chronemics- it deals with the use of time element of communication. Formal time is measured in minutes, hours, days and so on. Informal time is measured to seasons, social customs, lunar cycles, etc. Chronemics involves specifics such as punctuality along with patterns of dominance or deference within communication.
 - 7- Artifacts- It deals with the communicative aspect of apparent objects visible in the room art, possessions and so on.
 - 8- Olfactics- It is an aspect of non-verbal communication dealing with smells. Though not widely studied from a communication perspective, olfactics might include the use of perfumes and spices.
-

9- Gestures- Deliberate movements and signals are an important way to communicate meaning without words. Common gestures include waving, pointing and use fingers to indicate numeric amounts.

10- Para-Linguistics- Para Linguistics refers to vocal communication that is separate from actual language. This includes factors such as tone of voice, loudness, inflection and pitch. Consider the powerful effect that tone of voice can have on the meaning of a sentence. When said in a strong tone of voice, listeners might interpret approval and enthusiasm. The same words said in a hesitant tone of voice might convey disapproval and a lack of interest.

11- Appearance- Our choice of color, Clothing, hairstyles and other factors affecting appearance are also considered a means of nonverbal communication. Research on color psychology has demonstrated that different colors can evoke different moods. Appearance can also alter physiological reactions, judgments and interpretations.

12- Body language and posture- Posture and movement can also convey a great deal of information. Research on body language has grown significantly since the 1970's,. According to the researchers the body language is far suitable and less definitive.

6- What are the common barriers in the process of listening? Explain

Listening is not easy and there are a number of obstacles that stand in the way of effective listening, both within outside the workplace.

These barriers may be categorized as follows.

4- Physiological Barriers: -

Some people may have genuine hearing problems or deficiencies that prevent them from listening properly. It can be treated. Some people may have problem in processing information or retaining information in the memory. For example Lack of concentration/interest.

5- Physical Barriers: -

These referred to distraction in the environment such as the sound of an air conditioner , cigarette smoke, or an overheated room. It can interfere the Listening process. They could also be in the form of information overload. For example, if you are in meeting with your manager and the phone rings and your mobile beeps at the same time to let u know that you have the message. It is very hard to listen carefully to what is being said. Arriving late for a speech, presentation or lecture. Therefore unavailability of listeners, Speaker or listener being distracted by disturbances will also be coming into physical barrier category.

6- Attitudinal Barriers: -

Pre occupation with personal or work related problems can make it difficult to focus one's attention completely on what speaker is saying, even what is being said is of very importance. Another common attitudinal barrier is egocentrism, or the belief that the people have more knowledgeable than the speaker, or that there is nothing new to learn from the speaker's ideas. People with this kind of close minded attitude are very poor listeners

4. Wrong Assumptions: - The success of communication depend on the both the sender and receiver. It is wrong to assume that communication is the sole responsibility of the sender or the speaker and that listener have no role to play. Such an assumption can be big barrier to listening. For example, a brilliant speech or presentation, however well delivered, is wasted if the receiver is not listening at the other end. Listeners have as much responsibility as speakers to make the communication successful. The process should be made successful by paying attention seeking clarifications and giving feedback. Another example: Assuming that the speaker is going to give some unimportant information .or Pre-judgments about the speaker

5. Cultural Barriers:- Accents can be barriers to listening, since they interfere with the ability to understand the meaning of words that are pronounced differently. The problem of different accents arises not only between cultures, but also within a culture. For example, in a country like India where there is enormous cultural diversity, accents may differ even between regions states.

6. Gender Barriers:- communication research has shown that gender can be barrier to listening. Studies have revealed that men and women listen very differently and for different purposes. Women are more likely to listen for the emotion behind a speaker's words, when men listen more for the facts and the content.

7. Lack of Training: - Listening is not an inborn skill. People are not born good listeners. It is developed through practice and training. Lack of training in listening skills is an important barrier. In lack of training people do avoid listening to difficult, boring or complex information and selectively listen only to what is considered interesting.

8. Bad Listening Habits: - Most people are very average listeners who have developed poor listening habits that are hard to said and that act as barriers to listening. For example, some people have the habits of “faking” attention, or trying to look like a listeners, in order to impress the speaker and to assure him that they are paying attention. Others may tend to listen to each and every fact and, as a result, miss out the main point. For example Judging the speaker by his/her mannerisms, voice, appearance, accent, etc

7- Briefly explain why it is important for Engineer's to have good writing skills

BENEFITS OF EFFECTIVE WRITING SKILLS FOR ENGINEERING STUDENT

The second half of the 20th century saw a significant rise of demand for qualified engineers, mostly because after the World War II there was a lot to be rebuilt but also science and technology started to develop rapidly. Large companies, often owned by people that weren't engineers, but rich investors, needed specialists that could communicate in a way that was easy to understand.

The late 60's introduced technical writing which became one of the essential soft skills for every aspiring engineer. The reasons why writing is important nowadays vary and hold value to both engineers and their companies.

MAJOR BENEFITS THAT GOOD WRITING SKILLS HOLD FOR ENGINEERS

The Better Prospect of Landing a Job

Degrees in the world are sometimes not enough to get a job if you are not able to present yourself as a valuable asset. Good writing skills can help you create a compelling cover letter and resume that will point out all of your All the skills and clarify your value to that particular company. Hiring experts claim that it takes no longer than three minutes to determine if the cover letter is worthy of consideration and writing style is one of the key factors that form their decision.

Promote Yourself Internationally

Blogging is arguably the best way to represent your achievements and opinions to people from all over the world. As a striving engineer, you should consider letting everyone know what you stand for and what you plan to do with the skills you possess. To be successful at blogging you should aim for a broad audience which means communicating in a manner that is easy to understand, especially if engineering is nothing more than a mere interest of the reader. Proper spelling and grammar are of the utmost importance for each post so, while you develop your writing skills, consider hiring a proofreading service to check your work before publishing.

Communication with Management

It's not easy to explain the reasons why a certain project should be placed on hold or pushed forward with additional funds if you are not able to present your case so that people who are not experts in your field could understand what you are talking about. Therefore, it's important to learn how to create written content that will bring your arguments closer to company management.

Furthermore, explaining new ideas to your boss would be much easier if you are able to present them in a meaningful form that would elaborate all of the benefits your project brings to the company.

It will be your job to create technical documentation, specifications, system requirements, manuals, warranty restrictions, and other parts of product documentation intended for third-party individuals, users, or technical support. This is where your writing skills are put to the test because you have to create documentation that shows technical aspects of a product or service that are easy to understand and follow certain industry standards.

Communication with Different Divisions in the Company

Engineers are often required to work closely with various departments in the company such as sales, marketing, and other divisions that are not inhabited by engineers and technical staff. Much of the internal communication goes via emails so the ability to understand each other's messages is of paramount importance. If the departments are not communicating properly the whole project is in danger. Good writing skills allow you to create clear emails that are easy to understand, which makes the job easier for other members of the company. If an engineer doesn't explain all of the significant aspects of the product, the marketing won't be able to create a good strategy, the sales team could select the wrong price, and the company would suffer the consequences.

Conclusion

Writing is an important soft skill that everyone, including engineers, should consider developing for the betterment of their careers. Engineers, more than others, have the need for good writing skills as they allow simplification of complex scientific terms and data. This way, engineers can bring their aspirations and creativity closer to regular people who are in dire need of products and services crafted by the people of math and numbers.

8- Describe in detail various types of reading techniques with suitable example and importance of reading

TYPES OF READING TECHNIQUES

1- SKIMMING

Skimming sometimes referred to as gist reading, means going through the text to grasp the main idea. Here, the reader doesn't pronounce each and every word of the text but focuses their attention on the main theme or the core of the text. Examples of skimming are reading magazines or newspapers and searching for a name in a telephone directory.

2- SCANNING

Here, the reader quickly scuttles across sentences to get to a particular piece of information. Scanning involves the technique of rejecting or ignoring irrelevant information from the text to locate a specific piece of information.

3- INTENSIVE READING

Intensive reading is far more time-consuming than skimming and scanning as it needs the reader's attention to detail. It involves close reading that aims at the accuracy of comprehension. Here, the reader has to understand the meaning of each and every word.

4- EXTENSIVE READING

Extensive reading lays more emphasis on fluency and less on accuracy. It usually involves reading for pleasure and is more of an out-of-classroom activity. It is highly unlikely for readers to take up the extensive reading of text they do not like.

THE IMPORTANCE OF READING

Reading enhances our life in several ways:

1- Exercising Your Mind

One of the advantages of reading is that it engages various parts of your brain. When you read, you exercise your comprehension abilities and your analytical abilities. It fires up your imagination and stimulates the memory centers of your mind. It helps recall information as well as stabilize your emotions.

The importance of a reading habit is that it strengthens mental muscles. Reading is one of the best mental workouts there is. It's been found that regular mental stimulation can slow down and possibly even prevent diseases like Alzheimer's and dementia. Reading keeps the mind agile and young.

2- The Role Of Reading Skills In Communication

Reading and writing work in similar ways. Reading improves your writing style and flow. Writers learn to perfect their craft by taking inspiration from other writers. It's impossible to be a good writer if you don't read.

Another vital role of reading skills in communication is perfecting your oratory skills. Reading teaches you new words and perspectives. It helps strengthen language and sharpens sentence structure. It gives you a better command over the language. All of these are critical to being a good speaker.

3- Finding Yourself

Books work as portals to newer worlds. They have the potential to broaden your perspective, shape your attitude towards others and life, and open you up to new ways of thinking about everyday life.

4- Becoming A Well-Read Individual

The words "well-read" are often used to denote a learned individual, full of wisdom. Before the internet, books were the only sources of information and knowledge. Books contain the collective wisdom of our times. The more you read, the more you will learn about the world and the people in it. One of the great benefits of reading is that it helps you evolve your understanding of the world.

5- Keeping Calm And Entertained

Books can be a perfect escape from reality. They can cheer you up when you're down, motivate you when you're sad, and even keep you company when everybody else is busy.

One of the benefits of reading is that it relaxes your mind and body. You recharge your energy levels much faster when you read. Reading is the best way to end the day on a calm note. It may even help you fall asleep much faster.

6- Helps Master A Language

Reading is one of the best ways to learn a new language or gain mastery over a known one. Also, when you learn through stories, you learn much faster.

Learning about words through context is one of the most organic ways to understand their meaning and improve your vocabulary.

7- Keeps You Grounded

Reading is a constant exercise in humility. The more you read, the more you realize how much you haven't. That reminds you of how much further you still need to go. Each book reminds you of how limited your knowledge is.

9- Write a paragraph on " My first day at college"

Introduction: My first day at college is a memorable event in my life. In my boyhood, I always dreamt of studying in a college. My eldest brother studied in a college. He told me stories about his college. Those stories seemed to me like stories of another world. A college seemed to me completely different from my school. That is why I always pined for getting admitted into a college. Life in college seemed to me another word for freedom where I would get rid of the stringent rules of the school. At last, I passed my IIT examination and had a chance to study in a college. I collected admission form from some colleges. I appeared on the admission tests in those colleges and was selected for admission to Modern Institute of Technology and Research Centre. It started a new chapter in my life.

Preparation: I was longing for starting my college life. At last, the day came. On that, I got up from bed early in the morning and took breakfast. I started for the college early and reached there before 9 a. m. At first, I went to the notice board and wrote down the routine. I had three classes that day. I was surprised to know that my classes were in different classrooms.

Experience in the Classroom: My first class was English. I went to the classroom and took my seat. There were a lot of students. They were chatting in a lively manner. Many of the students were getting acquainted with each other. Though I did not know any of them before, I made some friends in no time at all. The professor entered the classroom on time. At first, he called over the rolls very quickly. Then he started his lecture. He spoke in English. He talked to us about the duties and responsibilities of a college student. I listened to him with rapt attention. I liked him and his lecture very much. The next class was Bengali first paper. We changed our classroom for attending the class. In that class, the teacher lectured on Bengali short stories. After attending the classes I could understand the difference between the educational standards of my previous school and the present college. The method of teaching was also much better in the college. The professor treated his students like friends and spoke politely.

College Library, Common Room, and Canteen: After attending the classes, I went to visit different areas of the college. The college library was very big. I was amazed to see thousands of books there. A lot of students were studying there. In the students' common, there were a lot of students chatting. Some of the students were also playing indoor games there. Then I went to the college canteen. There I had tea and snacks with some of my friends. On the campus, the students were enjoying themselves and having fun everywhere.

Conclusion: It was a very special day full of joy and new feelings. It is one of the most memorable days of my life.

10- Write a letter to the chairman of your municipality about irregular water supply

To

The Municipal Commissioner

Palam Municipality

Palam, Delhi - 110077

Date :

Subject: Complaint regarding irregular water supply.

Respected Sir/Madam,

I would like to inform you that our village/locality is very troubled by irregular supply of drinking water. Most of the hand pumps in our village are in poor condition. Water is coming in the taps outside the house for the last 10-15 days and even if water comes, it comes only for half an hour. Due to paucity/scarcity of drinking water, people stand in queue for hours with bucket and pots to fill water from midnight onwards. While filling water from the tap, people also start fighting with each other.

Therefore, I request you to kindly please regularize the supply of drinking water in this locality/village. We will be very grateful to you for this noble work.

Thanking You

Yours faithfully

Your Name

Palam Village, Delhi

11- Critically examine the poem the “All the World’s a stage.”

This poem is an excerpt from William Shakespeare’s celebrated comedy, As You Like It. It narrates the life cycle of a man by comparing it to a play. The different stages of a man’s life from infancy to death become the different acts that make up this play. The poem is 28 lines long. It does not have a rhyme scheme, but it is written in iambic pentameter. This means that every line has a rhythm of five beats.

The whole world is a stage, and all men and women are merely players. The poet says that the world is a stage on which the play of life is to be acted out. All men and women are simply actors in this play. All people have their exits and their entrances. Here, exits and entrances refer to deaths and births. One man in his life plays many parts or roles.

The different acts of the play are the seven ages or periods of man’s life. First, the man is the infant who cries and vomits in the nurse’s arms. The next part is that of the petulant schoolboy, with his shoulder bag and shining morning face, walking slowly like a snail, unwilling to go to school. Thus, childhood and adolescence are the first two acts of man's life.

Then comes the lover, sighing constantly like the sounds of a furnace, and dedicating sad ballads to his mistress's eyebrow. The lover is a youth full of fanciful desires. The next role is that of a soldier full of strange oaths who has a beard like a leopard. The soldier is eager to maintain his honour, sudden and quick in quarrel, and seeks short lived glory even in the face of death. So, man seeks glory and honour in this stage of life.

Although an adult, he is still full of the energy and temper of youth. Then the man becomes the justice. The respected judge has a fair round belly from eating good chicken, severe eyes and a beard of formal cut. He is full of wise sayings and modern instances and he too plays his part. The justice marks the man becoming mature with knowledge of the world around him.

In the sixth age, man shifts into the lean and slipper'd pantaloons, or a thin old man. He has spectacles on his nose and a pouch on his side. The pants from his youth are way too wide for his legs that have grown thin with age. His big manly voice is turning back into the high-pitched voice of a child, he sounds like pipes and whistles.

Therefore, old age has set in. We already see the man's voice becoming childlike, an indicator of the next stage that is coming. The last scene of all that ends this strange eventful history of the life of man is second childishness and simple oblivion. The poet implies that just before man dies and returns to oblivion or nothingness, he becomes a child again because he has no teeth, no eyes and no taste. He loses everything to become a child again and then face his death.

Conclusion

This poem gives us a brief summary of the cycle that every man's life must follow. According to the poet, the seven parts that a man plays in his life are- infant, schoolboy, lover, soldier, justice, old man, and finally a child again at the time of death. The poem describes the world as a stage where all people are actors who must act out these seven acts or stages of life.

12- Write a brief summary of the story “ The Three Questions ”

Three Questions is the story of a king who is in search of answers to three philosophical questions in life. He struggles to find the answers to the three questions, namely:

- When is the right time to begin something?
- Which people should he listen to?
- What is the most important thing for him to do?

The king sends out messengers throughout his country to find the answers from wise men. He also promises large sums of money to the person who gives the correct answer. However, all his efforts are in vain; because every time he gets a different answer from each person. So he decides to meet a wise hermit who lives in the woods. Two incidents happen there, which reveal the answer to the king.

When the king reaches the hermit's hut, the hermit seems to be digging the ground in front of his hut. He is old, tired and breathes heavily, as he keeps digging. The king asks his questions to the hermit, but the hermit continues to dig. The king, seeing that the hermit is struggling, decides to help him out. He takes the spade from the hermit's hand and starts digging. After he dug two beds, he stops digging and asks his questions. The hermit, without replying asks him to rest now and that he will continue digging. But the king does not oblige, and he continues to dig. Hours pass by, and it gets dark. He says he will return home if the hermit cannot answer the questions. The hermit sees someone running towards them.

They see a bearded man, with a bleeding wound in his stomach. The king immediately starts dressing his wounds and carries him to bed inside the hut. Out of exhaustion from the day's work, the king also sleeps on the floor. The next morning, when he wakes up, the bearded man asks for forgiveness to the king. The puzzled king asks why. The bearded man reveals that he was an enemy of the king, who had been defeated by the king once. The king had taken all his property, so he had come to kill the king when he was returning alone to the kingdom. But since the king did not return the previous day, the bearded man had come out of his hiding place, and the king's bodyguard had seen and stabbed him with a knife.

The bearded man says the king was kind-hearted and saved my life and that he wanted to serve him as his servant. The king forgives the man and promises to return his seized property. He is also happy that he has made friends with the enemy easily.

He goes to the hermit and begs for the answers to his questions. He says his questions have already been answered. He asks how. The hermit explains

- If the king had not helped him dig the ground, he would've left early, and the enemy (the bearded man) would have stabbed him.
- But the king did the right thing - by taking pity on the hermit, he decided to help him - that is the most important time that saved the king's life.
- The most important person at that time, to the king - was the hermit
- The most important thing to do - was to do the hermit some good help.

Again, the same thing happened with the bearded man also:

- The king cared for him the day before - the most important time
- The king dressed his wounds - the most important thing to do
- The king cared for the man in pain - the most important person

The hermit goes on to explain that, the most important time to do anything is NOW - because we have the power to act only in the present moment. The most important person is the person who you are with, at a particular time. No one knows what will happen in the future or whether we will meet anyone else. The most important business is to do good deeds because we were sent to this world only for that purpose.

13- Write a brief summary of the story “ The Necklace “Ans:

The story ‘The Necklace’ was written seven hundred years ago by Guy De Maupassant in France. Matilda Loisel lived in a small flat with her husband who worked as a clerk for the Minister of Education. Matilda was a very pretty young lady. Neither did they live a luxurious life nor were they poor. Matilda was very unhappy because she always thought that she was born for all luxuries in the world but she had to live a petty and simple life.

Her husband brought an invitation to a dinner party organized by his office. He thought his wife would be excited but instead, she was upset. She complained that she had nothing suitable to wear to such a great occasion. Her husband generously agreed to give her four hundred francs that he had saved to buy a new rifle to get herself a dress. Matilda became anxious in the week of the party. On asking her she told her husband that she had no jewellery policy with her gown. He suggested that perhaps she could borrow something from her friend Jeanne Forestier. Jeanne heard her story of distress and she generously opened her box of jewels. Matilda borrowed a sparkling diamond necklace.

Matilda and her husband attended the gala and had a great time. Matilda looked very pretty, elegant, and graceful. Everyone at the party noticed her and they all wanted to be introduced to her. She was so glorified by her beauty that she became very careless. They arrived home in the early hours of the morning. When Matilda viewed her glory in the mirror, she realized the necklace was missing. They searched for it everywhere in the house. They wondered if it fell in the cab that brought them home but neither of them noticed the number. Matilda's husband went out to search the streets but returned empty-handed. He also went to the policeman and to the cab offices to raise a complaint. He advertised in the newspaper and offered a reward. To buy some time from Jeanne, Matilda wrote a letter that she broke the clasp of the necklace and so she sent it for repair. In the meantime, they found a similar kind of necklace. The cost of the necklace was thirty-six thousand francs. Her husband inherited eighteen thousand francs from his father and he borrowed the rest of the amount from the moneylenders. Finally, they purchased the necklace and Matilda gave it to Jeanne who did not care to look at it.

Matilda's life changed dramatically in the next ten years. They moved to a much smaller apartment where she cooked and cleaned herself. Her husband did multiple jobs and she also did other work to pay all the money they had borrowed. After ten years, they were able to pay all the money back but by then Matilda had aged a lot.

One day, Matilda met Jeanne Forestier. She decided to confess the truth about the necklace. Jeanne was surprised to see Matilda's state. Matilda told her that she had lost the necklace that she borrowed from her and had to pay a huge amount for the replacement. Jeanne was shocked to hear the entire story behind the necklace and she confessed that the necklace Matilda borrowed was a fake, which was not more than worth five hundred francs.

Conclusion

The lesson of the story is 'Honesty is the best policy. If Matilda honestly told her friend the truth about the necklace, she would have learned that the necklace wasn't made of real diamonds and that would have saved her from living a miserable life for ten years.

It is a fact that many times people either hide the truth or they just simply lie so that they can get saved from punishment or the anger of their loved ones. However, it should always be kept in mind that the ones close to us will never hold us responsible for little follies, only if we tell the truth and accept our mistakes.

14- Describe the various stages of a man's life picturized in the poem "All the World's a stage."

Ans: According to Shakespeare, the world is a stage and everyone is a player. He says that every man has seven stages during his life time. The first stage of a man is childhood. He plays in the arms of his mother. He often vomits and cries in this stage. In his second stage, the man is an unwilling school going student. He becomes a lover in his third stage. He is very busy composing ballads for his beloved and yearns for her attention. In the fourth stage, he is aggressive and ambitious. He seeks reputation in all what he does. He is ready to guard his country and becomes a soldier. In his fifth stage, he becomes a fair judge with maturity and wisdom. In the sixth stage, he is seen with loose pantaloons and spectacles. His manly voice changes into a childish treble. The last stage of all is his second childhood. Slowly, he loses his faculties of sight, hearing, smell and taste and exits from the roles of his life. Thus Shakespeare pictures the seven stages of a man's life in the poem 'All the World's a Stage'.

15- 'Love is blind' is a phrase that was justified by Monsieur Loisel in the lesson 'The Necklace'. Substantiate the answer from the story you have read in about 100 – 120 words.

Ans: Monsieur Loisel's acceptance and contentment differ considerably from Matilda's emotional outbursts and constant dissatisfaction, and though he never fully understands his wife, he does his best to please her. When Monsieur Loisel tries to appease Matilda, he does it so blindly, wanting only to make her happy. When she declares that she cannot attend the party because she has nothing to wear, he gives her money to purchase a dress.

When she complains that she has no proper jewellery, he urges her to visit Madame Forestier to borrow some.

Monsieur Loisel's eagerness and willingness to please Matilda becomes his downfall when she loses the necklace. He is the one who devises a plan for purchasing a replacement necklace and orchestrates the loans and mortgages that help them pay for it. Although the decision costs him ten years of hard work, he does not complain or imagine an alternate fate. It is as if his desires do not even exist or, at the very least, his desires are meaningless if they stand in the way of Matilda's.